THE COOS BAY COAL MINES.

MARSHFIELD, Coos Bay, June 9, 1873.

Those who have not visited Coos county, and Coos Bay in particular, cannot form any correct opinion of the great industries and vast resources that are gradually being developed. Hitherto shipbuilding and the manufacture and shipping of lumber have been the principal business of the bay. Since the settlement of the country in 1852, it was well known that coal existed in the vicinity of the bay. In 1858 coal began to be taken out and shipped to San Francisco in small quantities. The first coal mine opened and the first shipment made was from North Bend. Although it is one of the valuable coal beds of the bay, A. M. Simpson & Brother simply tested the quality of the coal and the probable extent to which the mine could be worked, proceeded no further in mining, but concentrated their energies and capital in manufacturing lumber and ship-building, hoarding their coal mine for a future day. The Eastport and Newport coal mines have been working quietly and steadily for seventeen years. The great expenses incurred in opening the mines, and the limited capital then in the country and the difficulties in getting the coal on the market, made the development of the mines necessarily slow and not very profitable.

Some of the principal causes of public attention being lately turned toward Coos Bay, and the tendency of emigration moving in this direction, are the completion of these mines, their successful and profitable working; the discovery of additional and extensive coal fields of great value, within the last two years, that necessarily attract capital and require skilled labor; the great richness of bottom and other lands at different points, particularly on the banks of the Coquille river, its forks and numerous branches; and that the timbered lands, though laborious to clear, repay the labor and toil by its productiveness. The gold mines at Randolph, on the coast, and the recent improved methods of separating the gold from the black sand, are adding their contribution to draw capital, labor and emigration to Coos county and to Coos Bay. If none come but men of good habits, adapted to and experienced in coal mining, lumbering, sawmills, ship building, clearing timbered lands and building up comfortable homesteads by patient and persevering industry, the wants of this county and Bay will continue to demand a reasonable and continuous supply of such men to the advantage of all concerned. If others come not adapted to the industries and resources of the country, or not willing to learn and to do plenty of hard work, they will lose their time and money.

THE NEWPORT COAL MINE

Is located on the upper end of the Coal Miner's Slough, three miles from Marshfield, the entrance to Coos Bay. It was among the first mines opened on the bay, and is owned by Flanagan & Mann, who reside at the place. They have manifested indomitable courage and persevering industry for 17 years amidst many difficulties, until they have brought the mine to a state of working condition not easily surpassed, got their coal successfully on the San Francisco market, and the mine on a solid paying basis, that makes it a property of great value.

A well constructed railroad, more than a mile long, on which four cars, that carry three tons each, drawn by a locomotive, bring the coal from the mine to the deep water of the slough, where a vessel of 200 tons can be loaded in a day. The proprietors propose to extend this railroad from one to two miles further, so as to reach the deep water of the main (Isthmus) Slough, so that ocean steamers can be loaded from the cars, which steamers they purpose running to and from San Francisco in due time.

At the ordinary working of the mine when the demand is dull, 100 tons are taken out daily; when the demand is good, 150 tons are produced. The production can be increased to 200 tons a day when required. A stock of 1,000 tons is kept in a bunker of great strength, and of a capacity equal to 2,000 tons, so that vessels can be loaded without loss of time. There is nothing wanting that modern ingenuity can devise that is not employed at this mine to economize labor and facilitate expedition in loading vessels. Although the main tunnel runs 3,000 feet south, a branch tunnel 700 feet southeast that has thirteen chambers, another branch runs in the direction of the mine 950 feet that has fourteen chambers opened, yet the mine is as well ventilated as any ordinary house. The incline of the mine is such that the loaded cars come out themselves under the care of a brakesman; the empty cars are taken back by mules. Preparations are being made for working the mine still more successfully and profitably. The coal is among the best for dome tic purposes. It is quite popular in the San Francisco market, and will be in great demand as times improve by the removal of the pressure on the money market. The proprietors being residents, naturally take an interest in the miners, the workmen generally and their families. The village of Newport is composed entirely of the people connected with the coal mine and their families, and number, altogether, about a hundred persons. Married men have neat cottages and gardens, single men have a large house with comfortable sleeping apartments and a common dining hall, where competent cooks supply them with excellent meals. There is a school for the youth, a news room for the men, a hall for meetings, a hotel for visitors and a good store for supplying the wants of the people. There are few establishments where the proprietors and their ladies pay more intelligent and benevolent consideration to their employes and their families. They have the reward of seeing their work well and faithfully done, and in the grateful regards of the people. Great attention and generous hospitality are shown to visitors, and all such leave with the impression that the proprietors are worthy of the success that has crowned their industrial enterprise. The miners and others are a superior class of men, and the manager—Mr. R. M. Hutchenson—is every way qualified for his important and responsible post. Miners are paid $1 a ton; first-class miners make $5 a day; those not so experienced make from $3 50 to $4. Ordinary working men get $2 50 or $40 a month and board. A few confidential men get $3 a day, or from $50 to $60 a month and board. No intoxicating drinks are sold in the village.

THE EASTPORT COAL MINE

Is owned by Howard & Pool, of San Francisco. They bought it about four years since from John Pershbaker, for which they paid $125,000. It was opened about the same time as the Newport mine, but could not be considered profitable until it came into the possession of the present owners. They have expended all the money required to put the mine in the most favorable condition to develop its great resources to the best advantage. They have displayed great judgment in appointing Mr. R. Wingate as their general manager, to whom much of the successful working of the mine may be attributed. As an evidence of the value of the mine and its successful working, it is paying a dividend of two per cent. a month on the original purchase. The coals are taken from the mine similar to the mode at Newport mine, then weighed, stamped and screened into the bunker that holds 2,000 tons. From the lower end of the bunker the cars are loaded for shipping, the cars are drawn by horses on a track seven eighths of a mile long to the slough, where vessels can be loaded that draw 12 feet of water. The owners intend continuing this railroad for a mile farther, so as to reach the deep waters of the slough, near the mouth of the bay at Marshfield. This will enable them to load from the cars at all times as large vessels as can cross the bar. The proprietors built, own and run the steamship Eastport in connection with their coal mine to and from San Francisco. This steamer is introducing a revolution in favor of coal mining, general freight and passenger traffic in Coos Bay. So well adapted is this steamer for the coal business that the owners are building another one for the same line. Flanagan & Mann, of Newport, as before mentioned, contemplate running a line of steamers in connection with their mine also.

By means of the steamer Eastport the owners can carry their own coal to San Francisco for $2 a ton, and make two round trips in the month, in place of paying $4 a ton by sailing vessels and only making one trip in the month. She is a popular steamer for passenger traffic, having a comfortable saloon, large airy cabins, an excellent table, a competent Captain and obliging officers. When the connections are all made and well defined between Roseburg, Portland and Coos Bay, as they will be by the 1st of July, the line will be well patronized by the traveling public to and from San Francisco. At present she brings an average of thirty in the saloon and takes out twenty. When the second steamer is built it will enable the owners to run them once a week each way, and when Flannagan & Mann's line is put on, it will give two steamers in the week. The statements and expectations may seem extravagant to those who have never been ten miles from a smoking chimney, but those who have examined the timbered lands, the lumbering business, the coal mine and coal fields of Coos Bay with an impartial mind, will come to the conclusion that the vast resources of the bay justify such calculations and expectations. The Eastport Mining Company employ at present about fifty men. They look well after their safety and comfort and pay them good wages. There are about one hundred people in the village, all more or less connected with the mine.

Mr. F. Schetter keeps a fine store for the convenience of miners and their families, settlers, and vessels coming for coal. He is the attentive, kind and popular agent for the steamship Eastport, and is doing much in his own way to open up and develop the resources and facilities of Coos Bay to the traveling and trading public. These facts and statements are given as samples of the present development and prosperity of the coal mines of Coos Bay, and as indications of the great future that is in store for this favored part of Coos county in regard to its material interests.

NORTHWEST.

THE TERRITORIES.

Potatoes are scarce and dear at Boise City. Not so in Webfoot.

A 59 pound salmon was caught two miles above Kalama last week.

Two relatives of Jay Cooke, the great banker, are visiting Washington Territory.

A webfooted chicken is the latest curiosity of Olympia. His father must have been a drake.

The dwelling house of Mr. Elder, of Olympia, was robbed of about $60 worth of bedding a few nights ago.

There is a dearth of amusements on the Sound at present, and the people are sighing for the classic performances of the McGinley Troupe.

The Courier says: "Owing to the financial depression in the money market, very little real estate is being transferred in Olympia at present."

The postoffice address of Mr. Nelson Rounds, Territorial Superintendent of Common Schools, has been changed from Union Ridge, to Pioneer, Clark Co., W. T.

W. J. Hill, Sheriff of Oneida county, Idaho, and editor of the Avalanche was recently married to Miss Belle Peck. The ceremony was performed by Gov. Bennett.

A Methodist campmeeting is now in progress near the Lower Cowlitz railroad station. We are informed that it is intended to continue services there till the 16th inst.

Owing to improvements being made on the church at Olympia, the holding of the Presbyterian Synod at that place has been postponed until Thursday the 26th inst. The Synod will continue over the 29th.

Coal is being hauled from Kanosh, in Southern Utah, to the Raymond & Ely mine at Pioche, a distance of about eighty miles. It is stated that this coal is of such a superior quality that, with railroad communication to the Central Pacific, it would be eagerly sought for in San Francisco.

The total amount of the assessable property in the corporate limits of Olympia, for 1873, amounts to $818,771. Real estate, $456,532, and personal property, $362,239. The municipal tax of 5 mills amounts to $4,068 85, and the road and poll tax amount to $3,204 23; total, $7,273 08. More than $2,000 have been received from liquor licenses.

The Olympia Courier is informed by reliable authority that Messrs. Goodall, Nelson & Perkins are preparing to put on a line of steamships between San Francisco and Puget Sound ports. The Ventura, the pioneer ship of the line, will sail about the first day of August, after which time regular trips will be made at proper intervals. The Ventura is a fine steamer of 800 tons register, is a fast sailer, and a good sea boat and first-class in every respect.

A writer in the Seattle Dispatch, speaking of the Northern Pacific Railroad, says: "I am satisfied, upon inquiring, that sixty miles in addition to the forty, will be built by, say 1st July, 1874. The city will then be laid out, and the lots put in the market with the expectation of realizing a million or more from their sales to speculators. That the leading city of the Sound will be at this place I do not believe, for it will require more stupidity than I think can possibly exist at Seattle, to prevent that city from holding the lead she already has. The road for effort is plain. Let Judge McFadden lend his whole effort towards obtaining a grant of the tide lands at the head of the Bay to the city of Seattle. This done, no expenditures of money or exercise of official or railroad influence can prevent the supremacy of Seattle."

Letter from Baker City.

BAKER CITY, June 6, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Baker has got over the usual spring excitement and resumed its wonted appearance. Trade is as good if not better than last season, notwithstanding the cry of hard times and no money. The various mining camps promise to yield as well as last season, and I think Eldorado will be better, as the Chicago Ditch Co. are running quite a stream of water into that camp, and selling all they bring in. Mr. Charles Green of Rye valley is getting ready for the shipment of quite a quantity of rich silver ore from his mines, the Green Discovery and Monumental. This ore will go to San Francisco for sale or reduction there. Mr. Green's gold lode, the Macedonia, is being opened by Mr. W. H. Rockfellow. Very rich decomposed free gold is in sight. Mr. Frans is also running an arastra successfully, taking quartz from a ledge near Green's gold rock. All these ledges are located in Granite mountain, near Rye valley, 35 miles southeast from Baker, and if these mines were located in Arizona, Utah or Nevada, hundreds of capitalists would flock thither, seeking whom they might devour. Time and patient labor will develop these mines and make them a source of pride and profit to Eastern Oregon.

Weather to-day cool, clear and pleasant.

Indians in town selling horses. No particular news or excitement anywhere.

A little shooting scrape in town a few evenings since; black and bruised head the result, no arrests.

DIED OF A BROKEN HEART.—The Utica Observer of May 26th has the following: A sudden death occurred at Oppenheim, Fulton county, last night. Within the past year Johanna Davis, a step-daughter of Solomon Cramer, was engaged to be married to a man named Swartwout, who married another woman during the winter. Miss Davis' grief at this disappointment caused serious mental and physical affliction. Last evening her mother and herself saw the jilting lover and his wife pass by the window. The sight seemed to affect Miss Davis, and her appearance attracted her mother's attention. The young lady, in response to questions and tears, said: "Don't cry for me, mother; I shall die to-night." At 10 P. M. the girl was a corpse. Her death was caused by a broken heart.

West and east bound trains out and in were a little late. The washing out has not yet been fixed, and cannot be until the water subsides. Mr. Cary's body is in sight, but it is under water, jammed in between the tank and engine. No delay is anticipated for passengers, but no freight is moving.

Stokes to Have a New Trial.

ALBANY, June 10.—The Court of Appeals was unanimous in the opinion of granting Stokes a new trial. There were two opinions written—one by Gardner and the other by Rapallo. The charge of the court below is held to be erroneous on the point that the law presumes murder from the fact of the killing, and calls on the prisoner to mitigate or justify; also there were errors in excluding the proof of threats by the deceased to kill the prisoner, also error in permitting Mrs. Morse to contradict Jenny Turner in a collateral matter called out on the cross examination of Jenny—namely, as to whether she left Mrs. Morse's against her wishes and her statements that the detectives were paid to be after her soon after the homicide.

NEW YORK, June 10.—When Stokes was informed of the decision of the Court of Appeals, granting him a new trial, he expressed himself well pleased, but added quickly and somewhat sadly: "The report might possibly be untrue, and the disappointment would be all the greater if it should prove to be the case."

Don Piatt says upon the next trial he will prove to the satisfaction of the New York public that there has been a gross misrepresentation of the facts of the day of the tragedy, and that he will be able to establish the fact of Stokes' innocence by evidence of an overwhelming character. Bets on the decision are in favor of Stokes.

The Oregon Senator's Case.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A Tribune's Washington special says that the friends of Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, here, state that in view of the wide currency given to the scandal of his private life, he has been advised to resign. The argument used is, that while his change of name will invalidate his claim to a seat in the Senate, and although his previous anomalous domestic relations may not be sufficient ground for his expulsion, still it is advisable that the State of Oregon should not be represented by a Senator whose influence will be paralyzed by misfortunes which surround him. It is not believed, however, that Mitchell will resign, but will endeavor to make as plausible a statement as possible consistent with the charges made against him.

Charges against Col. Gillem.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A special says an investigation will be made at once into Colonel Gillem's conduct of the campaign against the Modocs. Charges have been laid before the War Department, narrating that the command of Major Thomas went out early in the morning, and though the sound of battle was distinctly heard, the commanding officer sent no relief until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but was lounging all day in his tent. On account of this neglect, large numbers of officers and men were killed and wounded. Dr. Dewitt, Assistant Surgeon U. S. Army, specifically charges Gillem with neglect for leaving the wounded on the field for thirty-six hours, before orders were given to bring them in for treatment; that Lieut. Harris died in consequence of this neglect. The feeling among army officers is very intense against Gillem. They say that he is notoriously incapable, and demand his trial by court martial.

The Burning of Alexandra Palace.

LONDON, June 9.—The Alexandra Palace at Muswell Hill, six miles north of this city was burned to-day. The total loss is $3,000,000, insured for $600,000. The fire was caused by some careless workmen, who were repairing the roof. No one was killed, but several injured. The supply of water was scarce, hence the rapidity with which the fire spread. Within half an hour after the alarm was given, the whole structure was enveloped in flames, and one by one the great domes, by which it was surmounted, fell in. The large organ was destroyed, but some valuable pictures and other works of art were saved.

Three venerable bells were recently sent from Carthagena to New York, to be recast into a single bell for the town clock of that old town. There were various inscriptions on these old peal-ringers, and the dates of their birth, as well, the youngest having been cast in 1773, the next in 1740, and the other in 1698.

The chair used by the moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, recently in session in Baltimore, was used at the Synod of Dort in 1618, when deputies from England and the Reformed Church in Europe tried to reconcile the doctrines of Luther, Calvin and Arminius; was brought to Albany by a Dutch family in 1660; was handed from one generation to another, until, at the end of one hundred and sixty years, it became the property of the Rev. Dr. Chester, of that city, who transferred it to its present owner, a Presbyterian gentleman of Baltimore.

Gerrit Smith has addressed a letter to Charles A. Dana, General Thomas Jordan and Miguel Aldama, inclosing a check for $1,000, to be used at their discretion for the relief of poor Cubans, either here or in their native island. In his letter he denounces the policy of England and the United States in remaining neutral while so barbarous a warfare is being waged on the part of the Spanish Government, and prays for the day to come when the nations of the earth shall respect each other's enactments only so far as they are in behalf of justice and humanity, and asserts that the widest and grandest upward steps of mankind have been taken in defiant opposition to what had hitherto been accepted as law. Speaking of the proposed convention of colored men in New Orleans to consider the best means for setting at liberty all persons of color now held in slavery upon the American continent, he hopes that the Southern colored people will be numerously and bravely represented in that convention.

The Great Conflict.

The conflict between the railway corporations and the people of the United States is taking daily more and more definite shape. The people are moving on slowly, and without the noisy demonstrations that mark great popular movements in other countries, but their purpose is fixed and their step is steady. They will make mistakes and get back-sets occasionally, as they are not accustomed to the mode of warfare, or the use of the peculiar and effective means, by which the corporations have been accustomed to exercise so great power in the land; but they are conscious of being in the right, they are sensible of the stern necessities of the hour, and they will not stop till they have secured themselves against the most unreasonable burdens imposed upon them by these corporations. The New York Times truthfully says:

> That the struggle is inevitable, no thoughtful and instructed observer will deny. The power already wielded by these corporations is notoriously enormous. We have seen how, in both the State and the National Legislatures, that power has been used. We have seen how the chief railroad corporations of the country have sought to change their position as the servants of the people to that of being their masters. To an alarming extent the effort has succeeded. For the due protection of the community which grants the franchise, the law assigns given limits to the capital of each corporation. The just and obvious aim here is to restrict the tax imposed on the public for the transportation of their persons and products. But, in substance, this precaution has become a dead letter. The people are mulcted in prodigious sums by excessive rates for freight and passage, and the people's representatives are bribed to enable the conspirators to divide the profits. Nearly $50,000,000, wrung from the people by one New York railroad corporation, were a short time since thus pocketed by the stockholders in a single operation. The money could not be ostensibly added to the capital, but the matter was adjusted by an easy evasion susceptible of indefinite repetition, and consisting in a division of "stock certificates."

Happily these wrongs are not chargeable against all the railway corporations. Some have thus far been free from suspicion of the foul practices specified, or any similar ones; but this class will not object to any reasonable legal restrictions by which the public will be secured against the result of their falling into bad hands hereafter. The law that protects the public from the rapacity of those who would wrong them will work no hardship on those who have no desire to do so.

The N. Y. Tribune presents the claim of the widow of the late Gen. Canby upon the country in strong, eulogistic words. It holds that the nation owes "a righteous debt" which should be discharged faithfully and with alacrity. Of Gen. Canby it is said that "he had been a dozen years a General. He had held the highest executive and administrative positions in the military service. He had commanded armies, and had exercised absolute power over districts embracing the spoils of an empire. Yet when he died he left his widow penniless. He was one of those old-fashioned public men who never made money out of their places. It probably never occurred to him in his life that he had anything to do but his duty." The Tribune appropriately says that those who knew General Canby best are army officers, generally men of small incomes, and large subscriptions ought not to be expected from them; that Mrs. Canby will receive a pension of $50 a month, only, from the Government, and that there ought to be no trouble in collecting fifteen or twenty thousand dollars in a city like New York. A movement for the relief of Mrs. Canby, recently started in St. Louis, is meeting with hearty support. The country owes her a living, and the obligation should be promptly met.

CUTTING DOWN EXPENSES.—The Kalama Beacon learns that the capitalists from Europe and elsewhere, lately here for the purpose of investigating the affairs of Mr. Holladay's railroads in Oregon, have for a month past had an expert here taking items, and that expert "proposes to his principals the reduction of expenses on the O. and C. R. R., by lopping off several dead-head salaries, thereby effecting a retrenchment of about $10,000 a month—among which are President's salary per month, $1,000, Vice President's do, $500; attorney's do, $800; Secretary, $250; $1,000 per month to supply deficiency in running expenses of the Portland Daily Bulletin, etc., to the extent of $10,000, which the road has now to provide, in addition to the $2,000 per day interest on the bonds which were sold to build the road."

One young man in New York city has learned to doubt the wisdom of carrying concealed weapons. We refer to the case of young Roderick, who killed his mother recently in attempting to defend himself from an imagined assault. The mother, true to maternal instinct, rushed between the young men, and was killed in the struggle. The Coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the killing of Mrs. Roderick was accidental. Roderick is censured for carrying concealed weapons, and Corcoran (his opponent) is held for trial on a charge of fighting and carelessness. Neither of these young men were twenty years of age. Both were in the habit of carrying revolvers, and one had been drinking to excess.

Numbers of immigrants are reaching our city from the East every week. We trust these persons, and especially those who are seeking an agricultural section, will not look around in this immediate vicinity only, or expect to find low priced farms near Portland, but that they will go into the heart and through the Wallamet Valley and other parts of the State, before they make up their judgments concerning Oregon. We are not afraid to compare advantages with any State or Territory in the Union upon a fair investigation. View our country thoroughly for yourselves, gentlemen, and then judge of its merits.

The Record (a leading religious periodical of the East) has been grievously "sold." Some Ishmaelite of a secular paper, announced the other day that "on Palm Sunday a neighboring Ritualist preached with a crown upon his head and a palm in his hand." Whereupon the Record lifts its hands in holy malediction upon Ritualism generally, and fails to see the joke until the Independent reminds it that the same thing must have been done on the same Sunday by all Low Church clergymen who had neither been scalped as to their skulls, nor amputated as to their arms!

The Illinois farmers' candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court has been defeated, after a feeble struggle. A Chicago dispatch of the 2d inst. says that the election for Judges of the Second and Fifth Districts, held on that day, resulted in the choice of John Schofield in the Second, and the re-election of Chief-Justice Lawrence in the Fifth, against Craig, the farmers' candidate.

Papers containing detailed accounts of the last Boston fire are received. The total loss on buildings is estimated at $618,500; on stocks of goods, etc., $672,500. Total, $1,291,000, on which there was a total insurance of $763,500. The Boston Library, which was incorporated seventy-five years ago, was totally destroyed. So also was the office of the Pilot, one of the oldest newspaper establishments in the city. Two large wholesale firms who were burned out in the great conflagration in November, 1872, suffered a similar calamity at this last fire. The firm losing most heavily was that of Haley, Morse & Co., furniture dealers, whose loss foots up $150,000. The New York Herald's correspondent says:

> That portion of Washington street about which the fire has raged, presents a scene of ruin and devastation not exceeded by any of the destruction of the 9th of November. Jagged walls, one or two stories high, show where costly buildings stood. The street is filled with broken granite piled in masses as it fell when the great walls came down before the burning heat. A stream of water equalling a small river runs from quantities poured by hosemen upon the ruins, down the paving, and soaks away among the charred timber and heaped up bricks. Smoke thick and black hangs over the scene and fills the eyes of the passing people. It is one complete, sad, sickening spectacle of destruction, which sends a chill to the heart of every spectator. Fire engines were here from Cambridge, Charleston, Brookline, Jamaica Plain, Newton, Chelsea, Quincy, Lowell and Fall River. A military guard, composed of Companies F, I and K, Ninth Regiment; Company E, First Regiment, and a detachment of United States Marines, guard the scene of the fire. Among the prominent buildings destroyed by the fire were the Globe Theater, Chickering's piano warehouse, Chancy Hall School, the International Hotel and the Freeman's Bank.

It is rather a significant fact that attaches of the Custom House watched the proceedings of the so-called Democratic Convention in this city very carefully, and were elated over the fact that that Convention made nominations. Some of these attaches, in fact, were present and joined most heartily in the cheers that were given for the ticket put up by the Democrats. But the masses seem to take very little interest in the nominations which have been made by the thimble-riggers and tricksters of both parties, as they actually were made, being put through bogus Conventions only as a matter of form.

It is claimed that the harmony in these Conventions is an indication of triumph, but if this is so we will have two sets of officials, for both of the so-called Conventions were "harmonious," as far as they went. The cause of their harmony, however, was not because of any principle for which they might have contended, but because the Conventions were so persistently let alone by the people. The manipulators of these Conventions had it all their own way in choosing their candidates, but on election day they will find that their schemes will meet with the opposition of the people and their "harmony" may be slightly disturbed.

From this morning's dispatches it appears that Senator Mitchell's friends in Washington have advised him to resign, arguing that the changing of his name, except by due process of law, will invalidate his rights to a seat in the Senate, and that Oregon should not be represented by a man whose influence is paralyzed by what his friends call "misfortunes," but which the Senator himself terms "youthful indiscretions" and acts committed in a "perturbed state of mind." But the dispatches further indicate a prevalent opinion as existing, that "Mr. Mitchell will not resign, but will make as plausible a statement as is consistent with the charges against him." His statement has been laid before his constituents, and many of them are grieved to find that he has failed to make a full answer to some of the most serious points made in the charges.

Postmaster James, of New York, has instructed the letter carriers of that city not to pry unnecessarily into the messages or writing on open communications, to exhibit or to communicate the contents to any one but the superintendents, clerks and carriers of the office and its different stations, and are told that postal cards on which are printed, drawn or written any obscene, vulgar or indecent words, or pictures, or any scurrilous epithets or disloyal devices, cannot be conveyed in the mails, or be delivered by the carriers, but are to be sent back to the "searchers' department." But how these persons are to find out what is improper when they are forbidden to pry into the contents is, as the Herald suggests, hard to see.

Dr. Gurney, who was the physician of the late Mr. Mill, is authority for the statement that that gentleman persisted in living at his residence at Avignon, though he knew that it was unhealthy, and refused to have the trees about the house cut down, lest the nightingales should be driven away. Erysipelas, of which Mr. Mill died, was known to be endemic in the valley where the house was situated, but he wished to be near the cemetery where his wife's tomb was. No one can refuse sympathy for the motives which induced this course; but however beautiful they may have been in spirit, they were strangely in conflict with the utilitarian philosophy which Mr. Mill taught.

From an exchange we learn that two more honest Congressmen have been found who have not kept their back pay. One handed it to his wife and the other paid it to a Washington landlord in liquidation of sundry bills for board and liquor.

The "Man with the Iron Jaw."

The Boston Advertiser of May 21st, says:

> The funeral of Mons. Edward D'Atalie, the remarkable gymnast of Barnum's circus, familiar known as the "man with the Iron Jaw," took place yesterday, at the St. James Catholic church on Albany street. He was in many respects one of the most remarkable men in the profession. He was a native of France, thirty-five years old, and has been in this country since July, 1870, when he came in company with the French wrestlers and the female Samson, under the management of Sam Colville, and first appeared in Wood's Museum in New York. Some of his feats were extraordinary, notably that of being hoisted to the proscenium of the theatre, supporting his own weight and that of a boy six years old by a little piece of rubber attached to a rope led through a block and held in his mouth by his teeth. He also was able to pick up a barrel half filled with water by his teeth. It has been insisted that some of his most wonderful feats were performed by the aid of some instrument, but some time ago a commission of medical gentlemen examined his mouth, and it was found that there was a peculiar formation of the jaw, which was the cause of the remarkable power manifested. He was a man of culture and refinement, a fine linguist, being familiar with seven languages. He leaves a wife (the female Samson) and two children, in many respects as remarkable as himself. His disease was pleurisy, aggravated by the severe weather of the season. He received during his illness many kindnesses from Mr. Barnum.

The ocean trade of Charleston is increasing rapidly, and the character of the products shipped indicates an encouraging degree of energy for the farmers of the surrounding region.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Fourth Session.

SALEM, June 10, 1873.

Pursuant to call of the Executive Committee of the State Sunday School Association, the Society met in the First Presbyterian Church, Salem, and was called to order by Rev. Mr. Shaw, President. Present, about 50 delegates from the various Sunday schools of the State.

The meeting was opened by prayer by Rev. T. H. Henderson, after which the audience joined in singing, and a lesson from the Scriptures was read.

The Chairman appointed a committee of three to nominate officers for the permanent organization, the committee to consist of Rev. Addison C. Jones, M. G. Royal and R. Reed.

After brief consultation, the committee returned the following names for the various offices: C. N. Terry, President; Rev. S. Bowers, Vice President: Rev. W. R. Stewart, Secretary.

It was moved and seconded that Dr. A. L. Lindsley, of Portland, be invited to address the Convention at the evening session, which motion was carried.

The Association then adjourned to meet at 1 o'clock P. M.

Strawberry parties are the rage up the valley. The wild fruit is abundant and delicious this season.

Two or three fatal cases of the epizooty have occurred in Linn county. A large number of horses are affected.

The grand jury, of Coos county, returned two indictments against the late Sheriff, Geo. W. Sleeper; one for embezzling public moneys and another for refusing to account therefor. He was tried upon the first and the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict. He will remain in jail until the next session of the Circuit Court.

T. H. DeLoss, who was sent to the penitentiary from this county about two years ago for obtaining money under false pretenses, but who was pardoned last winter, has been lately arrested upon a similar charge at Salem. He will suffer "de loss" of his character unless he is more careful in business matters.

The Roseburg Plaindealer says the lumber fields of the Coos Bay country seem to be inexhaustible, and the coal interests only sufficiently developed to give assurance of a constant source of wealth. The Randolph gold mines are already attracting general attention. Their richness is conceded and nothing required beyond a good method of saving the gold. Much is expected from the new process recently adopted by Hon. F. G. Lockhart of the Eagle, and Col. Lane of the Pioneer mines. Unfortunately there is but little agricultural land in this county, but what there is, is rich and productive beyond description.

Under the head of "Off for Oregon," the Holt County (Mo.) Sentinel of May 30th says: "The steamboat St. Luke, which landed at Brownlee mill landing on Monday, took on board sixteen citizens of Holt county, as follows: Mrs. Anna E. Brownlee, Master Brownlee, jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis with nine children, also a lady who had been stopping at Mr. Guy's, and two other persons, whose names we failed to learn. They were to go up the river to where they could connect per rail with the U. P. Railroad. Destination of these friends is, Eugene City, Lane county, Oregon. We are sorry to have them leave Holt, but if they can't stay any longer, we wish them a safe journey."

A Thrilling Railroad Adventure.

The passengers waiting for the departure of the 11:30, P. M., train, Thursday night, from the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad Depot at Cincinnati, were somewhat surprised to find, after considerable delay, that the locomotive was not on hand, as usual, fired up to drag the cars out to the several points south of Hamilton, and the railroad officials were also somewhat nonplussed not to find the engine in waiting nor the engineer around. Inquiry at the telegraph station of the junction of the Marietta and Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroads, east of the Mill Creek bridge, developed the reply from the Milesian in charge, that "sunthin had gone by him like the wind, and blowed him back into the shanty."

Another engine was fired up in the meantime, and the train finally pulled out for Hamilton at half-past 2 o'clock. After the train had started, the fireman running with the regular engineer was found on board, who stated that he and the engineer went to the round-house and got out the engine. The fireman got off to change the switch to allow the engineer to back to the cars, but it is supposed that the engineer being very sleepy and tired, forgot what he was about and opened the throttle wide and "let her go," without thinking of backing up. The statement of the fireman was confirmed; for upon the train arriving at Carthage, the fugitive engine was found off the track, the fire-box empty and 120 pounds of steam on, with the engineer asleep on the top of the tank. The switches being open at Mill Creek, the engine took the west track and at Carthage went off, as the switch was prepared for the train going north on the main track.

No particular damage was done by this little episode. The engine was replaced on the track, and the incident furnished considerable amusement for the boys all along the road yesterday; but it is safe to say that the experiment will not be repeated again very soon, even if the engineer is sleepy.

Something worse than drowsiness must have been the matter with the engineer. He sent the engine along at a breath-taking rate of speed, running from the round-house to Carthage, it is said, in eleven minutes. Fortunate it is for him, and possibly for others, that the engine ran off the track when it did; for he was on the "down" track, and in a few minutes would have experienced a collision with a train, which would have smashed the locomotive to finders, and probably have knocked the life out of him.—Cincinnati Commercial, May 24th.

OREGON FARMERS' STATE CONVENTION.

Second Session.

SALEM, June 10th, 1873.

The first Annual Convention of the farmers of Oregon was held in this city, April 10th and 11th, at which time a permanent organization was effected, and sundry committees were appointed with instructions to report at an adjourned meeting to be held in Salem, June 10th.

Pursuant to this adjournment, the Convention to-day met in the Assembly Hall, and was called to order at 10:30 A. M., by the President, Hon. M. Wilkins.

The Chair announced that the Committee on Credentials would receive and consider the credentials of such delegates as had not been present at the last meeting, together with those recently elected.

Mr. Clark, of Marion county, moved that the Convention adjourn to 1 o'clock P. M., remarking that a large number of delegates would arrive on the Governor Grover, from points up the valley, and that it would be better to defer the regular business until all the members could participate.

Mr. Babcock, of Polk, contested the motion. He wanted the case of certain delegates from Lincoln Club, who were in attendance without proper credentials, decided without delay. He therefore moved that those delegates be admitted.

John H. Smith, of Linn, said that the subject matter of the motion should come directly under the notice of the committee on credentials.

After considerable desultory discussion, Mr. Babcock withdrew his motion.

Mr. Clark, of Marion, renewed his motion to adjourn, but withdrew the same at the request of Mr. Moores, of Benton, who said there seemed to be some discussion as to who are chairman of certain committees appointed at the last meeting.

Mr. Moores moved that the party who stood on the list of committeemen as announced by the Chair should be constituted chairman in each case.

The motion was agreed to, after which the Convention adjourned to 1 o'clock P. M., at which time the committee on credentials will report.

Letter from a Butte Creek Farmer.

BUTTE CREEK, Oregon, June 5, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I notice in your paper of May 17th, a clip from the Willamette Farmer reflecting sharply on the stupidity of the Oregon farmers, in suffering our markets to be supplied with California produce. This is more the fault of traders or consumers, than of the farmers. I have taken to your own city garden products, which were refused while those of California were selling readily enough for cash, as you say. But you may say, if mine were as good as those from California, mine would sell too. Well, when I lived in that State I could sell all I raised; and I say, that Oregon vegetables are just as good, and I can take them to Portland as fresh as any one can bring them from California. But you say the farmers will not furnish them regularly, consequently traders order them from California. Will these traders engage such things from Oregon farmers, and bind themselves to pay cash on regular delivery? If they will, and agree to pay as much as they pay for California produce, let them so advertise and "try us on" and see if we do not supply our own market. I have taken cucumber pickles to Portland, and they have stood in the barrel at the store of John M. Breck until thrown away without a buyer. I am sorry I did not mark them, "From Napa," or "From Sacramento." As to Salem, I have tried to sell vegetables often, and never could for money. Last January I had lettuce and onions fit for the market, and I could have sold them in Sacramento for $30 or $40, but here I could not sell them for enough to pay me for putting them in the market.

Now, Sir, if any one of those traders who buy cucumbers from the south will agree to pay in cash 37½ cents per gallon, fresh from the gardens at home, let them say it, and we are in for it. If they will contract for any other garden products that will grow in Webfoot soil, and pay cash as they do for California, let them say so, and we are mostly all on it.

BEN THINKENONIT.

An Open Letter to Senator John M. Hipple, alias John H. Mitchell.

In explaining what you are pleased to call your "early indiscretions, ill-advised and injudicious acts," etc., you say, "Though it is a fact I had my misfortunes in early life and encountered domestic troubles of painful character, resulting in separation and divorce, troubles which I trust your generous indulgence will permit me to pass by in silence," etc. Were it not that you came into this State representing yourself a widower, under an assumed name, and shortly thereafter marrying your second wife, as many supposed, before you were divorced from your deserted wife in Pennsylvania, the public might comply with your request. Again, when you promised an explanation, the people had a right to one that could be understood. When you refer to your domestic troubles, resulting in separation and divorce, we think it would have been better understood if you had said separation some thirteen years ago, and a divorce obtained by your wife some three years ago, on the ground of desertion. If you obtained a divorce before you married your second wife, as your language seems to imply (and many of your friends claim this), it is an easy matter for you to so state, giving the name of the Court granting it. If the facts are otherwise, you have committed bigamy. Will you deny it, or excuse it on the plea of early indiscretions?

State Temperance Union.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A communication in this morning's OREGONIAN states that several Sunday Schools in Salem have elected Delegates to the State Temperance Union. I am a member of the largest Sunday School in Salem, and desire to report that Delegates have not been elected from our School, and I have made diligent inquiry of others and am convinced that the fears of your correspondent from Jefferson are groundless. No Delegates have been elected from the Sunday Schools of this city.

...ESDAY MORNING, JUNE 11, 1873.

CITY.

A DRUNK BEAR.—Quite a laughable incident occurred at the Steamship Company's dock last Sunday morning. For some time past several persons who are connected with, and work about the dock, have been in the habit of giving whisky to Mr. Mountain's Sitkian bear once a week. Every Sunday a bottle filled with whisky and syrup in about equal proportions, is given to bruin, which he appears to greatly relish. The animal has acquired the habit of tippling to perfection; ... is a bottle given him, then, taking ... his forepaws, he will carefully turn it ... and drain the contents. Last Sunday morning the bear took his "cocktail," and in ... minutes became blind drunk. In that intoxicated condition bruin espied his owner, Capt. ..., in a skiff near the edge of the wharf. The dog "Sailor," was also seated in the skiff, and no sooner did bruin perceive his playfellow than he sprang into the water and made for the boat. Mountain saw the bear coming, and not wishing to encounter him in the water, made toward the shore with all haste. But before he could reach the land, the bear's rough paws were on the gunwales of the skiff, and in a trice over it went, plunging "Sailor" and Mountain into the river. Both succeeded in reaching the land, after some trouble, but the ... would probably have drowned had not assistance been near at hand. After reaching the land, some time elapsed before the bear sobered down fully to its senses. An intoxicated bear is not a spectacle witnessed every day.

The ladies of the First Congregational Church will give a sociable and festival in the basement of the church this evening. There will be an abundance of ice cream, strawberries and refreshments. To those who attend, an evening of pleasant social intercourse is promised.

The ample and commodious room at the Skating Rink was thronged with a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen last evening, on the occasion of the strawberry and ice cream festival given under the auspices of the Ladies' Relief Society, for the benefit of the "Home." The gathering represented the wealth, intelligence and social refinement of the city, and was one of the largest which we have yet seen on former occasions of a similar character. At least 500 persons were present at 9 o'clock. Tables were arranged along the spacious hall, on which were placed in neat and tasty order, fruits, flowers and various kinds of needle work. The room and its moving throngs of humanity was brilliantly illuminated by the numerous gas jets, while a band of music lent additional attraction and animation to the panoramic scene. Financially, as well as socially, the event was very successful, and the sum total realized for the benefit of the homeless, destitute and suffering who may be cast within our gates, cannot fall short of several hundred dollars.

"I was passing along First street, last week, and as I turned the corner of Washington street I noticed some fine cloths and furnishing goods. The attraction was so great that I stepped inside, and after selecting the materials, I ordered what may be termed an elegant fitting suit. The place is Fishel & Roberts."

If she can get the royal permit she will accept, commencing in September.

An anecdote of Herve, the composer, is given in the Figaro. He was very unsuccessful in a provincial town where he was giving representations. The second night there was scarcely one person present. The next day an announcement was posted that an amateur of the town would make his debut in the piece of that evening; a crowded house was the result. The piece, Don Quixote, was played amidst general inattention; the audience were thinking of the native amateur. About the last scene Sancho made his entrance on his proverbial donkey. The audience, thinking they were to be taken in, shouted loudly for the amateur. Herve came forward with dignity, pointed to the beast and said, "You were promised the debut of an amateur of the town. Behold him." The curtain fell and the back door was used by the performers.

It seems that the simple robes of the Greek clergy may be put to other uses than that of clothing their portly forms. A short time since the orthodox faithful of Ismail having built a church invited a certain archimandrite of Ibraila to perform the ceremony of consecration. On his way to the former city the venerable ecclesiastic stopped at Toultcha, and then proceeded on his journey. On arriving at his destination he was received by a deputation of the big wigs of the town, who paid him all the honors due to his rank. When the time came for landing, the passengers, one and all, were asked if they had anything to declare, and when it came to the turn of the archimandrite he answered in the negative. A zealous custom-house officer, however, suspecting from a certain unsymmetrical protuberance of the archimandrite that something was wrong, immediately began to search him, and to the dismay of the deputation brought to light a large packet of excellent contraband tobacco which the holy man had received at Toultcha, and which was immediately confiscated.

A Wild Huntress.

The Wheeling Register of the 20th ult., tells the following story on the authority of Julia Messenger, of Windridge, Green county, Pennsylvania, for whose veracity it vouches:

A man living near Windridge, Green county, Pa., had born to him five children—four girls and one boy. His name is Daniel Lewis. When quite young the boy and second daughter, named Lucinda Lewis, developed quite a fondness for hunting, and were out nearly all the time, roaming the woods in search of game. They seemed to delight in nothing so much as the Fall life of the hunter, and would be gone from home for weeks at a time. After some four or five years, the boy quit and entered on the more industrious pursuits of life, but the girl continued in the chase. Drawing herself more and more from human intercourse and restraint, she has become a wild woman, fleeing from the approach of her kind with the speed of a deer.

During the early years of her solitary life, she used to approach her father's house and entice the dogs to follow her, learning almost any breed of dogs to become good hunters. In the hope of bringing her back to her home and to civilization, her brother followed her and shot the dog she had taken away, using every inducement to get her to go back with him; but all in vain.

For eighteen years—since she was twelve years of age—she has lived this wild life, sleeping in the centers of straw-stacks during the night, and hiding in them during the summer, the wild and cultivated fruits she intends for her Winter's store of provisions. She is now thirty years old, and is as wild as the most untamed denizen of the forest.

Mr. Messenger says he at one time, while out hunting, met her in the woods. Her long black hair, covering her face and eyes, was matted with burs and leaves, and her black flashing eyes made her a startling picture. She remained perfectly still until he got within twenty feet of her, when she turned and fled with a swiftness no man could hope to rival.

A few days since she was seen again, and then had in her hand three pheasants and four rabbits; but, although these encumbered her, she eluded every attempt to capture her. She has been so long in the woods that she has become perfectly wild. Her dress is made of the skins of wild animals and a blanket that she has taken during some of her nocturnal predatory tours.

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional murder or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to glean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys clothing, in the latest style, can be selected from.

How Brigham Young's Disciples Thrive in England

The Pall Mall Gazette of May 1st has the following:

"At a conference of Mormons which was held at Manchester the other day, under the Presidency of Brother Potts, some interesting information was given respecting the progress of Mormonite affairs in that part of the country. After singing a hymn, of which the refrain was—

Oh Babylon, oh Babylon, we bid thee farewell
We're going to the mountains of Ephraim to dwell—

the following statistical report for the nine months ending the 31st ultimo, was read. "The conference was made up of fourteen branches. There were seventeen elders, thirty-six teachers, and twenty nine deacons; thirty-three persons had been baptized during the nine months, four had been excommunicated, five had died, seventeen had emigrated, and there were at the present time, including members and officers, 570 saints in Manchester and the district. During the same nine months there had been received and expended a sum of £228"—not quite ten shillings a saint—which shows that, whatever the errors of Mormonism, it is not a costly sect, as times go. Brother Schofield gave a most satisfactory account of the Manchester branch, which, he said, had nearly 100 members "all in good condition"—that was to say, leading reputable lives, and not ashamed of their faith, but he regretted to state that some few were "not exactly what could be wished." It was some consolation, however, to know that there was a margin of improvement in all of them. The saints in Manchester felt "encouraged, stimulated and built up," and from personal knowledge Brother Schofield was able to say that there never was a time when the spirit of emigration prevailed among them more strongly than now. Time was when the Manchester branch could boast of 1,000 members. Why were there so few comparatively now? Because the better class of them—those having most means—had emigrated, leaving the poorer ones behind them. Brother Stones reported upon the Pendlebury branch, "which numbers forty members, 'all first rate.' 'They are,' added Brother Stones, 'all good.' Altogether the Mormonites seem to be doing well in Manchester and its neighborhood, and it is only fair on them to admit that if they cannot report all their members as being 'in good condition,' there are others in that city whose mode of transacting business is 'not exactly what could be wished.'"

At an auction sale of old guns in New York on the 29th of May, the following old pieces were disposed of:

An English howitzer, cast in 1752, with the arms of the three Kingdoms, and the motto on a shield, "Tria juncta in uno," and dedicated, "A rege et Victoria." An English howitzer taken by Wayne at the storming of Stony Point, July 15, 1779. A half dozen or more field-pieces of the French Revolution, cast in 1795, and covered from breech to muzzle with mottoes and inscriptions. Guns of the French monarchy, cast in Strasbourg in the last days of Louis XVI, with the Bourbon arms, and the names "La Poessie," "Danse," "Minerve," etc. Guns cast at Douay, by Beranger, in 1666, with profuse ornamentation, and the motto "Ultima ratio regum." Eight twelve pounder British siege guns surrendered to the American forces by the Convention of Saratoga, on October 17, 1777, and at the capitulation of Yorktown, October 19, 1781. These guns are carefully inscribed with the dates of their captures, and are histories in themselves.

TO THE TAX-PAYERS OF THE CITY OF PORTLAND.

The Portland Water Company take this method of defining their position on the purchase of their works by the city of Portland:

On the 25th day of April, 1872, this company received a communication from Messrs W. S. Ladd, J. B. Congle, C. H. Lewis and S. G. Reed, sub-committee on water supply, appointed by the Mayor, asking the question

"Will you dispose of your works to the city of Portland and if so, you will state price, terms, etc."

Our answer was, we would sell; and the price, three hundred thousand dollars, to be paid as specified.

Again, the Committee on Fire and Water called on us at our office, saying they came in accordance with a resolution passed by the Common Council, on the 5th of February, to confer with us as to the purchase of our works by the city, to ascertain the price, and report to the Council at their earliest convenience. This company named the same price, viz. $300,000, that had been named to the former committee, two hundred and forty thousand dollars coin, and the city to assume the payment of sixty thousand dollars currency bonds, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable in July, 1880.

The committee made their report to the Common Council on the evening of February 18, 1873, from which report we copy the latter portion, viz:

We have been permitted to examine the income of the Water Company for the years 1870, 1871 and 1872, from rents of water, and from them we learn that the receipts would pay the interest on the bonds, the cost of operating the works and have a considerable surplus, while the rents could be lowered one fourth the present rates, and still pay rents sufficient to pay interest and cost of operating, thus giving to our citizens cheaper water, which is a matter greatly to be desired.

The increase of population in the city will increase the rents, and cheaper rates will increase the takers, without corresponding increase in the cost of operating; and in the no distant future your Committee believe that the rates can be reduced to one-half the present rates, and still leave a sufficient revenue to pay interest on the bonds and cost of operating, while a small sum can be annually accumulating to form a sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds.

Under the provisions of our charter nothing can be done in the way of incurring an indebtedness sufficient to purchase or build Water Works, by the city until the proposition is submitted to the people at a general election, and by them approved.

Your Committee therefore recommend that the proposition of the Portland Water Company for the sale of their Works, rights, &c., &c., be submitted to the people at the coming June election, as provided by charter, for their approval or rejection.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) J. B. CONGLE,
J. C. MORELAND,
Committee on Fire and Water.

The Portland Water Company would respectfully state to the tax-payers the fact, that they have not urged the city to purchase our works. We have simply answered in good faith communications from committees appointed by the Mayor and Common Council of this city, as we supposed in good faith on the part of the city, and as a continuance of our willingness to give to the tax payers and the public any information they may desire, in order that they may vote intelligently at the coming June election for or against the purchase of our works by the city, we submit the following abstract from our books for two years, with the probable rates for one year:

COLEMANS Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining EUCALYPTUS all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.
It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc.
This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various method of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.
COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for those diseases are entirely avoided.
FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.
Beware of imitations, and take none but COLEMAN'S. For sale everywhere, and by Hodge, Calef & Co., Wholesale Druggists, Portland, Sole Agents for Oregon.

The War in Ashantee.

A SE[illegible] OF OUTBREAK AGAINST ENGLISH RULE—GOLD COAST AND ITS PEOPLE—A BLOODY BATTLE AND 3,000 KILLED.

The war that has broken out between Ashantee and the inhabitants of the English settlements in Guinea, on the west coast of Africa, cannot be looked upon as a small matter. The territory under actual British sovereignty menaced is very small, but its commercial importance is fully equal to that of either Tasmania, Western Australia or half a dozen of the lesser West Indian Islands. To learn its position exactly it is only necessary to take up a map of Africa, and looking at a point five degrees north of the Equator, there will be seen on the Atlantic seaboard the spot where stands Cape Coast Castle, the capital of the English settlements. It contains a population of ten thousand blacks and perhaps less than than two hundred whites exclusive of the garrison. As its name indicates it is a fortified position, being the strongest of seven or eight similarly armed factories on the coast in close to it maintained for purposes of trade with the interior.

THE ORIGIN OF THE WAR.

To get at an understanding of the present difficulties it will be necessary to briefly glance at the past history of the West Coast. The subject is of interest. The early Portuguese navigators in feeling their way for a passage around the Cape of Good Hope, first made settlements in Guinea. The Dutch, Danes and English followed. The British trade with the Gold Coast, was placed in the reign of Charles II, under control of the Royal African Company, whose Governor General was Governor of Cape Coast Castle. The forts built for the protection of Europeans were held at certain rents paid to the native kings or chiefs. The monarch of Ashantee reduced all the neighboring tribes and states to a condition of vassalage. One of the sub-kings revolted, and the Fantees, friends of the English, gave him assistance. They were conquered and their country was several times ravaged. In the beginning of the present century the Fantees, being closely pursued by the Ashantees, sought refuge at Cape Coast Castle. The Governor opened fire on the latter, and the English, who had calculated in finding in their new adversaries a prowess somewhat on a level of that of negroes of the coast, were astonished at seeing them rush to the very muzzles of the cannon and fire with such precision that not a man could appear at any embrasure without being instantly brought down. A force of thirty men—the garrison of the castle against 15,000 could do nothing. Reinforcements were sent. Meantime the castle was blockaded. Frequent attacks were made, and in 1816, the enemy was induced by presents to retire, and the authority of Ashantee was acknowledged over the entire coast.

A KING CONQUERED BY PRESENTS.

The English at Cape Coast Castle had been in the habit of paying rent or tribute to the Fantees by notes payable in kind—that is in rum, powder, guns and lead. The King of Ashantee got possession of these bills and insisted upon the same kind of a settlement being continued. On this a difficulty arose. His sable Majesty complained that the English cheated in sending articles of merchandise, that they wanted the rum, and that they supplied black dust instead of powder. He also complained that they refused to sell ammunition and muskets, that he praised the Dutch at Elmina (just ceded to England) for selling fairly, and who, he stated, gave him powder and shot and sent his gold back. In 1820 a commissioner was sent from England to try and settle the difficulties. When he arrived he found the King at the head of an army on the eve of attacking the people of Gamen, who were assisted by the Fantees. The commissioner brought with him presents consisting of an admiral's uniform, gold [illegible], pistols, gold embroidered silks, etc. The King was captured. He acknowledged himself to be a vassal of George IV., and he swore, "He is my master and I will serve him truly and do all I can to give him satisfaction; the white King is my King."

SIR CHARLES M'CARTHY'S DISASTROUS CAMPAIGN.

Matters did not long remain in this amicable condition. There was war again with the Fantees, and Cape Coast Castle was in 1821 again blockaded. The subject tribes refused tribute, and an army of 30,000 Ashantees began to move towards the English settlements. The governors of the factories would not receive the notes for rent given to the Fantees and captured by the Ashantees, on the ground that the forts were English territory. This was entirely at variance with the treaty of 1816. Sir Charles M'Carthy was now dispatched to the West Coast as Governor of all the settlements from Gambia to Volta river, and the Royal African Company was abolished. On reaching the country he found Cape Coast Castle rigorously blockaded. He at once proclaimed defiance and promised protection to the Fantees. Sir Charles determined upon marching upon Coomasy, the capital of Ashantee, and dethroning the King. He speedily set about organizing the natives whose towns were near the forts. He adopted the system pursued by Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, and formed alliances with little inferior tribes. The King was near at hand, and kept his army in one body. Sir Charles divided his force into several columns, and, with the largest, made a rapid advance to repel the Ashantees, who met him in great numbers, and, it was admitted, in the most gallant style. The English were totally routed—almost annihilated. Sir Charles was killed, and of the whites under his command only two escaped. The war continued several years, and the Ashantees, becoming demoralized from the incipient sorties of the crews of several men-of-war ordered to the scene, returned to their own country.

SIXTY THOUSAND MEN ENGAGED IN BATTLE.

The recent cession of the Dutch settlements to England, as was anticipated, has had the effect of causing the Ashantees to take once more the war-path. Early in March last an army approached within twenty miles of Cape Coast Castle. They, no doubt, began to feel the loss of their friends, who supplied them with arms and ammunition, and to perceive that they could expect nothing in that line from the British factories. The invaders came in formidable numbers (30,000), acting in unison and obeying all the orders of the commander placed over them. The Fantees, in equal strength, were, to a considerable extent, badly armed, and were acting under the direction of five or six kings. The battle opened early on the morning of March 10. The tactics appear to have been very simple, and consisted in steady firing to the front without any attempt to maneuver. After seven hours' fighting the right wing of the Ashantee army was driven off the field, and its flank thus exposed to be turned. At that critical moment a messenger was sent to an English officer commanding an armed body of police, only a mile or two distant from the spot where the battle was fought, entreating him to come to the succor of the Fantees. He refused to comply, stating, curiously enough, as a reason, that his instructions were to give them nothing more than support. Thus left to their own resources, the Fantees retreated, finding themselves out of ammunition. They fell back, it is said, in good order, and were not pursued. The Ashantees lost 2,000 men, and the Fantees, who acted on the defensive, 1,000 men."

My friends, I know Ezra Cornell if any man knows him—for seven years I have been closely associated with him in this work, and I reiterate that I have known never another man so unselfish—so carried away with a desire to benefit his fellowmen. He is rough at times. When I first met him in the Senate of the State I thought his rough, decided, vigorous way very unattractive, but when I saw him without any ostentation giving seventy-five thousand dollars to a library for his townsmen, when I saw him walk a mile in a hot day to buy an armful of school books for a poor student, when he quietly remarked to me that he thought he could spare about half a million of dollars for some enterprise for the good of his fellow citizens of this State, I saw that beneath that rough exterior was a good, true heart, and I determined that what I could do to give success to his plans should be done. As I stood by him then, I stand by him now. If he is to be disgraced, I shall feel it an honor to be disgraced with him. I had infinitely rather be with him in disgrace than with his calumniators in triumph.—President Andrew D. White.

Eli Perkins' Notes.

EVERY-DAY NEW YORK PICTURES.

To the Editor of the N. Y. Daily Graphic: Let me show you some little every-day New York pictures this evening. There are only four of them.

I.

"Hundreds of little Pariahs are kept by old hags on Cherry and Baxter streets, just to steal and beg. If they come home at night without having stolen or begged certain sums the poor little fellows are whipped and made to go to bed on the floor without any supper. Most of these boys turn out pickpockets and eventually go to the Island or to Sing Sing as burglars and housebreakers. One little fellow who has lived on Cherry street for seven years didn't know what the Bible was, and he [illegible] he had never heard of Christ."—Police Paper.

BUT

"the Rev. Mr. Van Meter, who established the second Five Points Mission House, has raised funds enough to establish a Protestant Mission Church in Rome. He writes that three more Italian subjects have been rescued from Popery and converted to the Protestant faith, and that he is deeply solicitous for further contributions from brothers and sisters in the cause to help on the glorious work and enable them to build a snug little parsonage for the residence of the American missionaries."—Five Points Mission Report.

II.

"Mrs. Mary Thomas testified that Mrs. Hurley turned her out of the Girls' Lodging House on a stormy night to die in the Fifth Street Station House, and Sergeant Snyder swore that on the morning of the 18th of March, he found Mary lying sick on the floor in the station house. She was in distress, and said:

"'For God's sake have some one to do something for me,' and in the midst of her crying and mourning she gave birth to a child."—Police Report.

BUT

"the private stables of Mr. Belmont, Bonner and many other gentlemen are made of black walnut, beautifully furnished and nicely warmed. The horses are clothed in soft white blankets, and fed and cleaned with the regularity of clock-work. I am endeavoring to have all other animals well cared for, too, and to accomplish this I caused the arrest of a private coachman to-day, and detained the carriage in front of A. T. Stewart's, because the driver had driven tacks in the side of the bridle, which picked and chafed the horse, compelling him to keep his head straight. If cars are overloaded the horses will be stopped, and the people will have to walk."—Mr. Humane(?) Bergh's Letter.

III.

"A woman, who up to the time of our going to press had not been identified, was found dead yesterday morning on a door step in Thirty-fourth street. The deceased evidently wandered from some of the poorer wards in search of employment, and from her emaciated condition, it is probable she had not tasted food for several days. It is thought that poverty and starvation caused her death. The body, scantily clothed in a few rags, lays unclaimed in the Morgue."—Police Gazette.

BUT

"Mrs. Livingstone's elegant and fashionable reception and german, at her palatial Fifth avenue mansion, on Monday evening was too gorgeous for description. Many of the ladies' toilets were from Worth's, and cost fabulous sums, and the flowers which draped the rooms—all rare exotics—must have cost a small fortune. Among the guests sparkling with jewels, was Mrs. Lawrence, whose bridal trousseau, when she was married last week, is said to have cost $7,000. The rare and expensive wines which cheered the occasion astonished even the connoisseurs."—Home Journal.

IV.

"Bellevue Hospital is often crowded to excess with sick, so much so that patients suffer through bad air and inattention.

"It is impossible to warm the Tombs, or to keep it from being damp, unwholesome, and sickly; and until an appropriation of at least $50,000 is made by the city, prisoners must continue to be crowded together and continue to suffer, especially in cold weather, beneath damp bed clothes."—Report of Commissioners of Charities and Correction.

BUT

"The Park Commissioner is of opinion that it will cost $5,000,000 to complete the new Natural History buildings in Central Park to give ample room for the minerals, fossils and live animals. The wild animals of the zoological collection take up a large amount of room in the Park buildings, and it costs the city a great deal of money to feed them and keep them properly warmed, but they are a source of great amusement to the nurses and children."—Park Commissioner's Report.

A Kit of Burglar's Tools.—The most important article is the jimmy, whose name has become, as people say, a household word, and yet very few who have never seen a jimmy know what it is. It may relieve the ignorant and puzzling ones to know that a jimmy is but a corruption of the honest crowbar, made of steel, constructed so that the leverage is very great. They measure in length from two feet to three and one half feet.

Next to the jimmy the alderman ranks next in importance, and concerning that article even more inadequate notions prevail. The alderman, when in position, is an upright post about three and-a-half feet high, fastened to the floor by screws, and braced on one side, at the top, by a plank or joist, so that it forms an immovable pillar, against which a drill or jack may be braced. The most expensive tool in the kit is the jack, an instrument constructed on the principle of the screw of that name, in common use, with the difference that a fine thread gives it almost unlimited power, and that instead of flat plates to rest upon the objects to be separated, there are claws which can be introduced into cracks or other crevices. Besides these tools there are wedges, whose use is readily understood, monkey wrenches, saws, files, gimlets, pincers, skeleton keys, and levers, tin tubes, with which to blow powder under doors or into key-holes, fuses, and other little contrivances, whose use might vary with circumstances. The implements are made of the best of steel, of superior finish, and a complete set costs from $800 to $1,000.

Remarkable Case of Somnambulism.—The New Hampshire somnambulistic boy, who goes about hitting people on the head with a hatchet, has an imitator up in Fairview, Erie county. It is related that on one of the bitter cold nights the past winter, a boy of that borough, aged about twelve years, rose in his sleep, and, clad only in boy's nocturnal garb and a pair of stockings, went through the frosty air and deep snow one quarter of a mile to the house of a neighbor, informed them that burglars had made an entrance into the house, and solicited aid. The neighbor cross questioned the youth, the result of which was that the boy's statement appeared to be straight and correct. After routing the neighbors, hunting for revolvers, and much hullabaloo, an armed party made for the house where the boy had stated that the burglars had been operating. They approached carefully, slyly effected an entrance, and imagine their surprise when they found the family reading quietly by the fireside. They stated that they supposed the boy was sleeping in bed. He slept in the chamber, and in a somnambulistic mood crawled out of a back window and down to the ground, when he was off for the neighbors for assistance.—Titusville (Penn.) Courier.

St Louis is to have a new paper to be called the Tribune, with a capital of $100,000.

The Treasury estimates for the [illegible] were on a falling off of $2[illegible] from [illegible] average per month to $11,000,000 per month. [illegible] will require nearly $4,000,000 [illegible] the [illegible] make up $142,000,000 for the year. The decrease for the first three quarters was $16,000,000 at New York, and $3,000,000 at the outports. The decrease at New York in April was $4,800,000 but the comparison in May and June will be but a [illegible] less unfavorable and the chances are that the whole year at all the ports will come within $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 of the estimates, while the Internal Revenue promise to exceed the estimates from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000. They are now $10[illegible] on $110,000,000 estimated for the year with five weeks receipts to come in.

The reasons for the relative larger falling off in Customs at New York to the small difference at the outports is the free duties since last July on tea and coffee, the importation of both articles being mostly done through New York. The duties before the revision of the tariff were nearly $20,000,000 a year.

Eastern Dry Good Markets.

From our last exchanges, which are up to the 31st ult; we learn the following in regard to the movements and prices in the dry goods markets.

The bulk of the Spring business is over, and there begins to be signs of a rapidly decreasing trade, until the usual summer dullness preparatory to the Fall business commences.

The markets are generally inactive, and the sales from first hands are confined wholly to the demand to meet the wants of current trade.

There is but little doing in woolens, though the clothiers are buying more freely of cloths and fancy cassimeres.

In domestic cottons the sales are small, and, though prices are nominally steady there is not much promise of a continuation of the present rates.

The stock of standard sheetings, in first hands, is said to be light for the season, which gives a steadier tone to the market.

Printing cloths are in less demand and prices are a fraction lower. The latest sales of 64 extra quality, for immediate delivery are made at 6[illegible] cents.

Cotton duck continues in steady demand, and moderate sales are effected at steady prices.

Cotton drills are in small demand to meet the current wants of trade.

In other departments of domestic cottons there are no changes to notice. The market is generally quiet and prices unchanged.

Worsted dress goods are not now in active demand, and the sales, even of the most attractive styles, are on a very small scale. Prices are without any quotable change.

Cloths and overcoatings have been in an improving condition, but the better demand is altogether from the clothing trade.

There is an increasing demand for doeskins.

Osnaburgs are in steady demand, but the sales are limited and prices are barely steady.

Fancy cassimeres of heavy weight are selling more freely to the clothiers since the revision of prices, and the demand for the different grades, from low to fine qualities, has shown a marked improvement in activity.

Satinets have been in better demand for black, but the mixed are less active. Prices are steady.

In other departments of domestic Woolens there are no changes worth reporting.

Foreign goods are without any special movement. The importations have considerably fallen off, and the sales at auction, though still large, are for the most part made up of odds and ends and broken invoices.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There has been but little movement in our market for several days, nor is it likely that transactions will be brisk again before the new crop begins to come in. The small lots occasionally offering are taken at $1 52@1 55 per cental.

FLOUR—The present week so far, has been very dull, except the local demand, which continues fair. Quotations remain steady at $6 per barrel for extra of fancy and established brands, good country brands commanding $4 25@4 75, fine, $4, superfine, $3 75. The supply in the hands of dealers and agents here is small, especially, compared with former seasons.

OATS—There seems to be but little tendency toward a recuperation in the market, and prices remain steady at 50@52 cents per bushel. Buyers do not seem to be anxious even at these low figures, and we look for this cereal to be dull from this until the new crop makes its appearance.

BARLEY—The new crop is beginning to be received in the San Francisco market, selling at about the same figure commanded by the old here for some time. Current rates are $1 40@1 50 per cwt, including sacks.

HAY—We note but little change, good Timothy quotable at $14 loose and $15 per ton baled, delivered on the wharves.

FEED—There is but little activity and prices remain without important change.

POTATOES—Prices for old crop are hard to obtain above 30@35 cents per bushel. There seems to be a full supply on hand and producers often find it difficult to sell. The new crop of Oregon is not yet at hand but shipments from California are received and sell at 2½@3 cents per lb.

ONIONS—The market is still bare of Oregon raised.

APPLES—None are offering now and prices are nominal.

BACON—The receipts continue nearly up to the average of the season. Good country cured Hams are quotable at 14@15c per pound, Sides 11@12c, Shoulders 8@9 cents. Fancy brands of sugar cured command an advance of 3@5 cents on the above prices, but are difficult to obtain. The demand for all kinds is slightly improving.

BUTTER—We note large supplies and no important change in rates, though some claim that the market is weaker, since our last review.

EGGS—The receipts this week are rather less than for the corresponding period of last. Dealers pay 15 cents per dozen, but are backward buyers.

HIDES—Shippers, under advices are more cautious buyers, but prices experience but little change. Dry is still quoted at 16@18 cents per pound, green 6@6½, salted 7@7½, culls 12½.

WOOL—The determination of growers to hold on for better rates than are now prevailing seems to be general and hence we note limited lots being purchased at 30 cents per pound which seems to be the settled rate for the present.

LYON'S KATHAIRON

Only 50 Cents per Bottle.

It promotes the GROWTH, PRESERVES the COLOR, and increases the Vigor and BEAUTY of the HAIR.

OVER THIRTY YEARS AGO LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HAIR was first placed in the market by Professor E. Thomas Lyon, a graduate of Princeton College. The name is derived from the Greek "Kathro," signifying to cleanse, purify, rejuvenate, or restore. The favor it has received, and the popularity it has obtained, is unprecedented and incredible. It increases the GROWTH and BEAUTY of the HAIR. It is a delightful dressing. It eradicates dandruff. It prevents the Hair from turning gray. It keeps the head cool, and gives the hair a rich, soft, glossy appearance. It is the SAME in QUANTITY and QUALITY as it was over a QUARTER of a CENTURY AGO, and is sold by all Druggists and Country Stores at only 50 Cents per Bottle.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of long standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and others requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies. See that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED LIFE.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the awful responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in a registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Our Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian. ly6d&wt
